

FOXY FOX BLUFFS TINLEY PARK HUNTER

A recent fox hunting expedition enlisted a group of Tinley Park's most able, experienced and wily hunters. Each man was hand picked, and chosen, only after the most careful consideration, for his huntman's craft and sagacity.

A more formidable array of death dealing threats to an unsuspecting fox, would have been impossible to have assembled, from amongst the Izaak Walton disciples of our fair country-side.

With full confidence and bubbling enthusiasm, our party of friends proceeded to the local fox hunting grounds at 159th street. There, after an extensive pow-wow, the plans were laid for immediate action. A council of war was called. All the strategy and technique of a highly efficient and experienced group of sportsmen were employed.

The battle was on. The powerful force and wits of man against the secretive cunning and vicious cruelty of the fox.

A strong ring of dead-shot riflemen was formed. A circle of certain death for the unwary victim of the sporting hunter's blood-lust.

Each man received strict orders and with anxiously thrilling determination was ready to stand guard over his allotted post.

Truly an impregnable fortress of bristling steel. A certain death-knoll for any fox, when ambushed within its confines.

Of course, only if each line of this fortified guard held to its post. Ah! An inkling of a possible opening for Mr. Fox. His only chance. One in a hundred.

"IF EACH MAN HOLDS TO HIS POST." That is the key to our story. We shall see! We shall see!

Without further dispatch, the track was located and followed to its lair, and with machine-like precision, the trap was set and our fox was completely surrounded.

Each man to his post, tense, silent and alert. Now let the fox make his run. A faultless test for the much heralded cunning of any fox.

The stage is now set for the climax.

The fox, sensing his precarious position, realizes he is in a tight spot. All the shrewd cunning of his nature is sharpened into play. With quivering snout and rigid muscular tension he sniffs the air for a possible scent of escape and freedom.

Ha, watch! It has happened. The fox freezes at attention; tail straight out and sensitive nostrils fully expanded, his head slowly sweeps in every direction.

A faint, far-off scent of a mortician's perfume, an odor associated with death and the undertakers' slab.

The alert fox senses his one chance for escape.

The calloused regard for the human body after death; the customary task of meeting death in the raw. These, and his general environment, might make an undertaker a bit less alert or tense in facing the destruction of one little fox.

Such was the reasoning of this wild creature in the defense of its life. Slowly he relaxed. Every muscle went limp. Down close to the ground he slumped, as if to blend his body with old mother earth for protection.

With belly touching the ground, he slunk off through the brush guided by his sense of smell alone.

Orland Couple Married At Community Center

Dorothy J. Cooper and Raymond Miller of Orland Park were married at the Community Center Foundation Saturday, December 21, 1935, by Rev. Paul T. Sanders. Mrs. Miller is the teacher at the Alpine school and Mr. Miller is in business in Chicago. The young couple will reside in Orland Park.

Orland Legion Post Sponsors Basketball

The Orland Park Post of the American Legion is doing an outstanding bit of service to the communities in this section through its work with the boys in their basketball tournaments. The Post is financing and sponsoring basketball teams for boys in high school and those above high school age. They are reaching about fifty young people in this section. No organization in the community is meeting this much-felt need of making constructive use of the leisure time of these young people.

Mr. Charles Maddox, who has given so much time in the past years to the boys in supervising basketball, is in charge of the project. They are using the Tinley Park school gym. It is hoped that the people of the community will co-operate in this fine venture and encourage the boys by attending the games. More definite information will be given later concerning the games.

New Pastor At Orland Park Is Father Rooney

On Sunday, December 22, the Reverend J. L. Rooney, recently appointed pastor of St. Michael church Orland Park, greeted his parishioners for the first time. Father Rooney had been named by His Eminence, George Cardinal Mundelein, Archbishop of Chicago, as the successor of the Reverend William A. Gorey, who was promoted to the pastorate of Holy Family church, North Chicago. Father Rooney succeeds Father Gorey as pastor at both St. Michael's, Orland Park, and its mission, Sacred Heart church, Palos Park.

His First Pastorate

Father Rooney was born in Indianapolis, Ind., on August 12, 1897. At the age of two years he was brought to Chicago by his parents. The Rooney family resided in St. Agnes parish and it was from the parish school that Father Rooney graduated before entering the Cathedral College of the Sacred Heart, which is now known as Quigley Preparatory Seminary.

After finishing his course in the preparatory seminary, Father Rooney, in 1916 entered St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, Md. On December 23, 1922, he was ordained by His Eminence, Cardinal Mundelein, in the Cathedral of the Holy Name, Chicago, and on Christmas Day, 1922, he sang his first Mass in St. Agnes church.

Assistant at St. Mel's

Father Rooney's first assignment was to assist the Rt. Rev. Msgr. P. J. McDonnell, pastor of St. Mel church. Here for eight and one-half years Father Rooney labored, gradually increasing the number of his tasks and his sphere of influence, until the long illness of Msgr. McDonnell forced on him the administration of the entire parish. For three and one-half years he was acting pastor and directed the activities of the Holy Name Society and all the other many parochial organizations of this immense parochial unit. His experience in parochial administration will serve him well in his new field of labor.

Following the death of Msgr. McDonnell Father Rooney was assigned to assist the Rev. T. Sheridan, pastor of St. Dorothy church. For the last four and one-half years Father Rooney has fulfilled his duties as assistant with the same zeal which characterized his priestly labors at St. Mel's.

Historic Community

The parishes of St. Michael's, Orland Park, and Sacred Heart, Palos Park, are located in an historic section of Chicagoland. St. Michael's, Orland Park, is on the Southwest Highway, while Sacred Heart, Palos Park, is on Keane avenue. Two Masses are celebrated in each church on Sunday. Hours of Masses at Palos are at 8 and 9:30, each Sunday. Some of the most picturesque local scenery is to be found along these highways and in addition to many retired local residents, Chicagoans in ever increasing numbers are finding this neighborhood a desirable dwelling place.

The work so effectively done by Father Gorey will be carried on by Father Rooney at Palos and Orland, and the young pastor is expected to make a success of his first major assignment in parochial work.

Watch 47 Years Old Still In Use

Recently an item appeared in these columns relative to an old watch Wm. Hollstein of Tinley Park is still wearing after over 40 years of service. Now here is another interesting old watch story.

In 1888 the late Henry Brandau of Tinley Park, purchased a watch from the late Henry Vogt, father of the present popular owner of Vogt's Department Store. Mr. Brandau purchased the time-piece as a gift for his son H. M. Brandau of Tinley Park. The watch is now 47 years old and is in daily use.

The watch not only serves Mr. Brandau as an accurate time-piece, but also as a remembrance of his parents.

FATHER GOREY NEW PASTOR AT NORTH CHICAGO

The Reverend William A. Gorey, former pastor of St. Michael church, Orland Park, has taken up his new duties as pastor of Holy Family church, North Chicago. Father Gorey was assigned to this pastorate by His Eminence, George Cardinal Mundelein, Archbishop of Chicago.

As pastor of Holy Family church, Father Gorey succeeds the Reverend James G. Halleran, D.D., who has been promoted, by His Eminence, to the pastorate of St. Justin Martyr church, Chicago.

Returns to North Shore

In assuming his new pastorate, Father Gorey returns to the North Shore where he is remembered for his priestly labors while serving as an assistant to the Reverend John J. O'Hearn, former pastor of St. Mary's church, Lake Forest. The Reverend Father William A. Gorey was born in Bloomington, Ill., on January 7, 1894. He attended Holy Trinity grammar school in Bloomington for several years before moving to Chicago with his parents. In Chicago he attended St. Agnes and St. Columbkille schools. After his graduation from St. Columbkille school he attended the Cathedral College of the Sacred Heart and completing the prescribed course of five years, he was graduated with honors and sent to the North American College, Rome, to further his studies. At the outbreak of the World war he was recalled to the United States to enter Kenrick Seminary, St. Louis, Mo., where he finished his studies for the priesthood.

Ordained in 1918

Father Gorey was ordained on September 21, 1918, in the Cathedral of the Holy Name by His Eminence, Cardinal Mundelein. His first assignment was as assistant to the Rev. Mathew Hanley pastor of St. Joachim church. He later served at Immaculate Conception church and was sent subsequently to Lake Forest.

First Pastor

In July, 1926, Father Gorey was named by Cardinal Mundelein as the first resident pastor of St. Michael church, Orland Park. Here Father Gorey labored indefatigably and made many improvements including the erection of a rectory. About seven years ago, Sacred Heart Mission of St. James church, Sag Bridge, was detached from its present church and added to St. Michael's, Orland. Since that time it has been efficiently served by Father Gorey as an out mission.

In recognition of the faithful service of Father Gorey in these pioneer outposts, his ecclesiastical superiors have rewarded him with the promotion to the pastorate of Holy Family parish in North Chicago.

Father Gorey's innumerable friends are rejoicing in his advancement and are predicting a useful career of zealous service to the parishioners of Holy Family church.

Fox Shot On Tinley Farm

Foxes are getting to be quite numerous in the Tinley Park - Orland sector of late. Wednesday morning Philip Yunker tracked down and shot a young fox in the vicinity of the Bormet farm. The animal was brought to Tinley Park and placed on exhibition at Pete Parent's tavern.

Police Chief Harry Uthe and Freddy Fletcher of Tinley Park tracked a fox from Tinley Park to Mokena Tuesday afternoon, but the animal got away so they had all their hating for nothing.

The foxes have been cleaning up on rabbits, chickens, ducks and geese. Rabbits, especially seem to be their favorite diet.

Mrs. Mildred Turney was appointed acting postmaster of Homewood by Postmaster General Farley. Mrs. Turney is the widow of Thomas G. Turney, who was postmaster of Homewood from April, 1934, until his death recently.

United States Commissioner Ed Robertson announced at Benton he had issued a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Estell Gooden, former clerk of Williamson county, on a charge of forging physicians' names to more than forty prescriptions in order to obtain narcotics.

It took Albert Ross, twenty-six, two minutes at Kewanee to decide that he would rather be sentenced to 150 years in prison than to death in the electric chair. Ross was given his choice of penalties by Judge W. R. Hunter after he entered a plea of guilty to the murder of William Ziemis, seventy-six-year-old grocer, in a robbery November 4.

Joseph Yukas, sixty years old, a farm hand employed on the farm of Frank Martinez, Route 20, near Grayslake in Lake county, was killed when the team and wagon he was driving across the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad right-of-way which cuts through the farm was struck by a Minneapolis bound train. Both horses were killed and the wrecked wagon was dragged three-fourths of a mile.

A. L. Bowen, director of public welfare, said that a survey of one Illinois congressional district indicated to him that as soon as the old age pension system is in full operation, it will be possible to close permanently nearly all the poorhouses in the state. The survey was made in the Twenty-fourth district, which includes the mining county of Saline and the primarily rural counties of Clay, Edwards, Massac, Hamilton, Gallatin, Wayne, Hardin, Johnson, White, and Pope. In these counties, Bowen said, the department found 21 per cent of all relief clients were over sixty-five years of age. He said his workers found that in most of the counties the almshouses had only a handful of inmates, some of them less than fifteen.

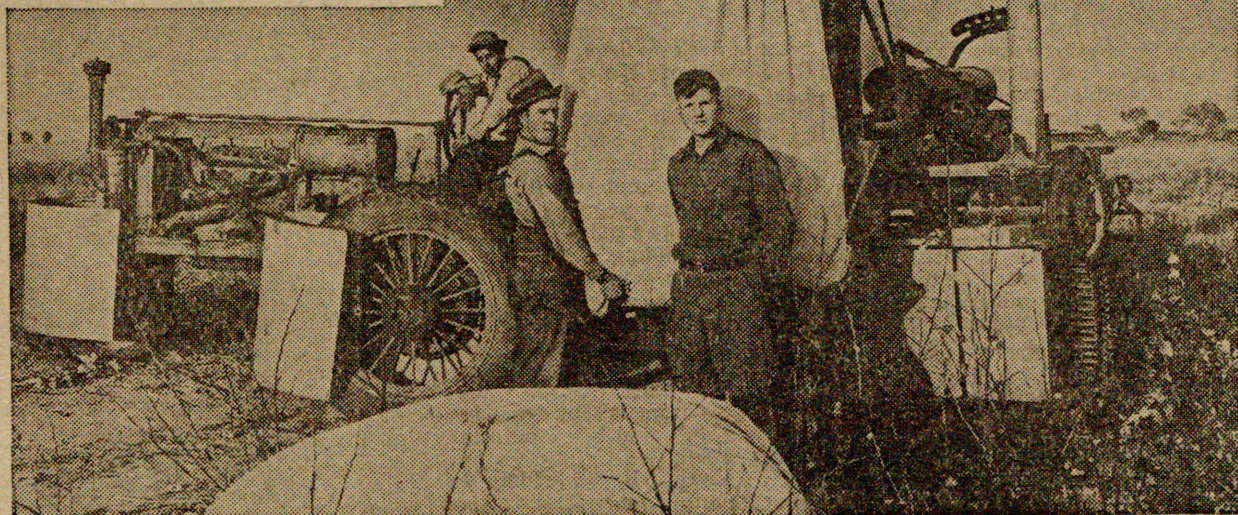

Alfred Codman, Jr., thirty-three years old, Harvard graduate and son of a wealthy New York and Boston stock broker, who entered the Stateville penitentiary at Joliet last January to serve a one to fourteen year sentence for manslaughter, was given a full pardon by Gov. Henry Horner. This fall he coached the Stateville football team. Codman was found guilty last January by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer of the Criminal court of having driven the automobile which, on February 3, 1934, killed Mrs. Elizabeth Preytag, thirty-three years old, in Chicago. Her husband, Arthur, was injured. The autoist fled and was arrested in his room in a hotel. Conditional pardons were granted by the governor to Jay B. Simpson, Will county, convicted in April, 1926, and January, 1927, respectively, of armed robbery, and given sentences of ten years to life.

E. L. "Red" Crane, candidate for reelection as circuit clerk in Sangamon county, is distributing thimbles, which on their base inform the women that he is a candidate. State's Attorney A. H. Greening, also liking the idea, has ordered a large supply of the thimbles to boost his own candidacy.

A landmark was lost in Warrenville, DuPage county, when fire destroyed the Warrenville Baptist church, Jefferson and Batavia roads, which was erected in 1857. The flames consumed the frame building within an hour. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

Arizona Has New Cotton Picking Machine

THIS cotton picking machine, built by J. D. and M. D. Rust, is being tested in Salt River valley, Ariz., and seems to be a success. Claw-like spindles rip the cotton from the pods, another apparatus removes it from the spindles and a blower carries it to the sack. The machine picks 1,400 pounds an hour. A hand-picker gathers about 100 pounds a day.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

LIGHTFOOT'S LONG SWIM

THE Big River was very wide. It would have been a long swim for Lightfoot had he been fresh and at his best. Strange as it may seem, Lightfoot is a splendid swimmer despite his small, delicate feet. He enjoys swimming.

But now Lightfoot was terribly tired from his long run ahead of the hounds. For a time he swam rapidly, but those weary muscles grew still more weary, and by the time he reached the middle of the Big River it seemed to him that he was not getting ahead at all. At first he had tried to swim toward a clump of trees he could see on the opposite bank above the point where he had entered the water, but to do this he had to swim against the current, and he soon found that he hadn't the strength to do this. Then he turned and headed for a point down the river. This made the swimming easier, for the current helped him instead of hindering him.

Even then, he could feel his strength leaving him. Had he escaped those hounds and the terrible hunters only to be drowned in the Big River? This new fear gave him more strength for a little while. But it did not last long. He was three-fourths of the way across the Big River, but still that other shore seemed a terrible distance away. Little by little hope died in the heart of Lightfoot the Deer. He would keep on just as long as he could, and then—well, it was better to drown than to be torn to pieces by dogs.

Just as Lightfoot felt that he could not take another stroke and that the end was at hand, a foot touched something. Then all four feet touched. A second later he had found solid footing and was standing with the water only up to his knees. He had found a little sand-bar out in the Big River.

With a little gasp of returning hope, Lightfoot waded along until the water began to grow deeper again. He had hoped that he would be able to wade ashore, but he saw now that he would have to swim again. So for a long time he remained right where he was. He was so tired that he trembled all over, and he was as frightened as he was tired. He knew that standing out there in the water he could be seen for a long distance, and that made him nervous and fearful. Supposing a hunter on the shore he was trying to reach should see him. Then he would have no chance at all, for the hunter would simply wait for him and shoot him as he came out of the water.

But rest he must, and so he stood for a long time on the little sand bar in the Big River. And little by little he felt his strength returning.

THINGS SO GOOD

WE ALL enjoy good noodles—baked, in soup, with cheese, and now they are being served in place of pastry, a much more wholesome pie than the usual rich crust, much as we still enjoy it. Spaghetti, macaroni and noodles may be used in exchange in the following dishes:

Apricots in Nest.

Cook one-half pound of spaghetti until tender, blanch and drain. Add two slightly beaten eggs, the grated rind of a lemon, one-half cup of sugar, one tablespoon of lemon juice, cook until the eggs are set, stirring carefully. Place in a baking dish or mold and fill the center with a can of apricots, sprinkle with finely shredded almonds and a dash of cinnamon, bake until just lightly brown. Serve chilled with whipped cream.

Egg Noodles Corona-Chef Maurice.

Take a package of egg noodles or a similar amount of the home prepared, cook them until tender and drain. Butter a ring mold and fill with the noodles. Bake one hour in a moderate oven.

Fry one small onion in a tablespoon of fat, add one pound of veal and brown well. Cover with one and one-half cups of water, one-half teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce and salt and pepper to taste. Cook gently for 45 minutes. Thicken the gravy with two to three tablespoons of flour mixed with the same amount of cold water. Add one can of peas or small lima beans. Unmold the ring on a hot platter and fill the center with the veal and peas. Garnish with mushrooms.

MAGNETIC DICE

SOME of the cleverest of impromptu tricks require a bit of "bunkum" to make them mystify. This is the case with the "Magnetic Dice." Most persons will doubt you when you tell them that dice are magnetic. So you proceed to prove it.

You set one of the dice with the six side up. Taking the other, you carefully place it on the first, holding the six side down. The same surfaces must contact, you tell your friends. Sixes are the best sides to use.

Whereupon, you lift the uppermost of the dice. Invariably, the lower one comes along. There are the dice, magnetized as you promised.

Sides have nothing to do with it, nor has magnetism. That is your story to cover the real secret. Simply moisten the lower side of the upper cube. Press the dice together and they will stick until you separate them.

TAUGHT TO READ

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THEY put it first of our three R's. The fathers of our stripes and stars. Yes, when they gave the land a tool Of liberty, the public school. They placed it in the teacher's hand. With this requirement, this command: Whatever else the land may need, The children must be taught to read.

But there is not a nation known To earth but may be overthrown And books, since books are made by men,

May teach us error now and then. For fools may write, or treason hint, And one thing say, another hint. And children must be taught, indeed, Much more than merely how to read.

And so I say, to those who teach, Who shape our morals and our speech, Who would not let the children drink Polluted water, there is ink. Polluted also, there are those Who would on innocence impose— And we who would the children lead Must teach the children what to read.

Kaolin, a Variety of Clay

Kaolin is a variety of clay, formed by the weathering of granite and certain other rocks. It burns to a pure white, and is used for the manufacture of pottery, such as porcelain and white earthenware. It is also employed in making some kinds of paper and in filling fabrics. Kaolin is found in a good many places in the United States, and though this country still imports a good deal of it, the domestic production is steadily rising. Vermont, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Delaware, North Carolina and Georgia all have productive deposits.

Kosciuszko's Tomb

The tomb of Kosciuszko, who served as Washington's adjutant during the Revolutionary war, is now a vault of the Cathedral of Cracow, in Poland. Every year hundreds of Americans visit it and the huge mound of earth which the Polish people built to honor him. The dirt for the mound was brought by peasants from all over the country in their long-flowing sleeves and aprons.

Ski-Stadium for Winter Olympics

AT GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, are these two jumps which have been prepared for the winter Olympics to be staged February 6 to 16, 1936. On the left is the "Little Olympic Jump," from which the jumping competitions in the combination event (18 kilometre cross-country race and jumping) will be carried out. At the right is the "Big Jump," the regulation Olympic take-off place. On the hillside are the judges' pavilion, the referees' tower and the judges' tower.

Childlikeness Which Is

Highest Gain of Humanity

There is a childhood into which we have to grow, just as there is a childhood which we must leave behind; a childlikeness which is the highest gain of humanity, and a childlikeness from which but few of those who are counted the wisest among men, have freed themselves in their imagined progress towards the reality of things.—George McDonald.

Well-Being to Unknown
Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

Another way in which Franklin protected the American home, or, at least, compensated for one disaster which might happen to it, was to organize the first fire insurance company—the "Philadelphia Contributionship for the Insurance of Houses, etc., from Loss by Fire." But more important to his fellow-citizens of Philadelphia was the fact that he established the first fire engine company to protect the city from fire. And not content with that civic enterprise, he also did these things for Philadelphia (thereby providing an example for other cities to follow):

POLICY ISSUED BY INSURANCE COMPANY FOUNDED BY FRANKLIN

Franklin's Snake Cartoon

He came out of the southwest, in other words, that storms travel in an opposite direction to the winds. He was the first to discover that the temperature of the Gulf Stream is higher than that of surrounding water, and the first to have that stream charted. He was the first to demonstrate that oil on the water will still the waves. He pointed out the advantage, later adopted universally, of building ships with water-tight compartments. He can not be credited with originating the idea since he took the hint for it from the Chinese, but he did introduce the idea into the western world.

Nor are these "firsts" all that can be credited to Benjamin Franklin for, as the Encyclopaedia Britannica says: "A summary of so versatile a genius is impossible." But they are enough to indicate how apt is the suggestion that he should be regarded as "first in the homes of his countrymen."

He found out why! They counted the days since he had made that gunshot, guessed at the miles, hoped for the direction. They went back, as well as they could, toward the ledge of silver. But the Southwest is a large place, and even a square mile can conceal many things beyond finding.

A man named James Fulford, who had heard the story, went to the old prospector's cabin and there found some papers which gave directions and locations. He outfitted at once and went out, heading for Slate mountain. A month later he was seen in the hills and said that he would soon return to town. Then snow set in again, and he was apparently caught in a storm on his way in, for his body was never found.

IN MEMORIAM

MAGER, ARTHUR—
In fond and loving memory of our dear husband and father who passed away January 8, 1935.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain,
We have suffered since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear husband and father
That we do not think of you.
Yet again we hope to meet you
When the day of life has fled,
And in Heaven with joy to greet you
Where no farewell tears are shed.
MRS. ARTHUR MAGER
AND CHILDREN.

A Drop-in Farewell party was given in honor of Miss Blanche Mary Carr, December 30th, who departed for Greeley, Colorado the next morning, where she attends school. Her 16th birthday was a surprise celebration. A good time was had by all present, playing games, singing, "Happy Birthday", dancing, watching a home movie show and sitting under the mistletoe. A buffet luncheon was served during the evening of cake and punch. Those present were the Schluter, Wilman Carr families and "Toots" Luicuis, Anna Stech, Harry Boetcher, Howard Elliot, Wyant Winsor and Frank Barker.

A genuine old style German "Hassenpfeffer" and fried rabbit delicacy was served last Friday night at Louis Hermesmyer's tavern to 20 Tinley Park hunters.

Wm. F. Koehler, popularly known as "Patsy" was the chef and he produced a feed "fit for a king" and this was the consensus of opinion of those fortunate enough to partake of the feast.

Henry Haase and Fred Ahrens shot 36 rabbits on Mr. Koehler's hunting grounds at Havana, Illinois, 225 miles south of here and a goodly number of these rabbits were used in the rabbit feed.

Mrs. Moon was awarded the Tinley Park Business Men's Association prize of $10 in cash last Saturday night.

Walter Mancke, local barber underwent a hernia operation in Ingalls Memorial hospital in Harvey Thursday. A group of his friends are planning to visit him Sunday. Carl Rauch is operating Mr. Mancke's barbershop during the latter's absence. The many friends of Mr. Mancke hope for his speedy recovery.

Fred Erickson has been laid up for a few days with a bad cold.

Word has been received that Wm. Lawrence, former Tinley Park resident, now living in Chicago, underwent an operation for the amputation of a leg as the result of an infection. A few years ago he underwent a similar operation and lost a leg.

Work on the new steel house in the South Elmore subdivision has been retarded somewhat by the cold weather. It is expected, however, that the building will be ready about February 1.

FOX BLUFFS TINLEY HUNTER

Slowly and undetected he approached his objective.

Shielded by a small bush, the fox could feel the presence of the guard just beyond his protective foliage. All the anger, viciousness and cruelty of his kind welled up in him. Now was the time. One last bold stroke and a swift attack, with his life at stake.

Only a few feet the other side of the bush, stood Bill, drooping gun in hand rather bored and tired of the tension required, all on account of a silly fox. Still, using every effort to remain watchful and faithful to his post; heavy eyelids and visions flitting through his mind of the comfortable couch in his beautiful home.

Bill's worthy and full life is gradually being rounded out to the stage when the glowing warmth of a fire-side is more inviting than the cold, bleak hunting grounds.

Suddenly, in the midst of these fleeting visions in reverie, a shocking apparition appeared before him. There almost at his feet, crouched the fox. Cruel, cold and ruthless, his lips drawn back in a vicious snarl, his teeth gleaming and saliva dripping from his jaws, his eyes spitting hate and desperation he crouched ready to unccoil like a spring and leap in for the kill.

In that instant, Bill stood there petrified, the blood drained from his face and seemed to freeze in his veins, he was unable to move a muscle. Panic seized him, beads of perspiration swathed his furrowed brow. With a wild rush, realization of his danger began to dawn upon him. Quicker than it takes to tell, he dropped his gun, wheeled and fled.

And who could blame him. The stoutest heart has its weak moments.

After the escape of the fox, the hue and cry went up.

Why did Bill desert his post? "I spied a rabbit," said Bill. "I thought I'd get me a bunny for a change."

"So! Where is your bunny?"

"Where are his tracks?"

"Aw Heck!" said Bill, "He was one of those new-fangled airplane rabbits. He had wings and flew away."

Absolutely justified, Bill, we are with you.

Duck Ponds, Fire Plugs and Race Tracks.

WASHINGTON. — The four billion, eight hundred and eighty million dollars that is being spent on President Roosevelt's program of made work covers a multitude and wide variety of projects. They range from teaching tap dancing, art classes, theatrical productions to the digging of a canal across Florida, the construction of duck ponds in North Dakota and some other states. The following paragraphs cover briefly a very few of the many thousands of similar projects this vast amount of public money is paying for:

An allotment of $14,762 to build a lily pond at Placerville, Calif.

A community poultry house at Lisbon, N. J., to cost $1,285.

For community gardens in Texas $3,226,500.

Money for Athletics.

For Duluth, Minn., federal government funds of $117,429 were allotted to build an athletic field, including a tennis court, ball field, field house and grand stands.

A $380,000 project for building 15,000 sanitary toilets in rural districts in twenty-one Colorado counties.

An allotment of $1,349 to paint the fire hydrants of Wilmington, Del.

An allotment of $4,265 to improve a race track at Dayton, Ohio.

At Harrisburg, Pa., $2,712 to count the trees on city streets.

Some $290,000 was set aside in New York to make maps of Geographic Distribution of Ancient Greek Dialects, an Isothermic Map of Mediterranean Region, a Profile of the Excavations at Kish, Early Bronze Age Intercourse, a Genealogy of the Julian-Claudian Line, and the Roman Coinage of the Alexandrian Mint.

Make Real Estate Survey.

Project 276, which employed 360 men at a cost of $315,000, was a real estate survey of New York city. Project 33, which simultaneously employed 1,200 men at a cost of nearly $2,000,000, was also a real estate survey of New York city.

Relief by recreation is costing more than $3,000,000,000 per year. One phase of this activity was eurythmic dancing.

An allotment of $530,784 for decoration of 1,900 federal buildings by unemployed artists.

An allotment of $3,450,000 to employ 3,500 men and women to take a house to house canvass to obtain records of the prevalence of chronic diseases and illnesses of long duration.

An allotment of $1,080,942 to make a check of retail liquor stores.

An allotment of $1,577,894 for an income tax investigation.

Alphabet Complex Again.

The President approved $1,804,948 to prepare an alphabetical list by geographical units and families of all individuals returned at the 1900 census.

For a survey of retail trade, $298,000.

For a census of business enterprise in 1935, $7,784,000.

A farm housing survey in 300 counties to include information as to physical condition of dwellings, water supply, lighting, etc., and to employ 4,992 men is costing $1,080,570.

Eight hundred dollars was set aside to employ three men to make a study of Russian rainfall.

To find out what prices farmers pay for commodities they buy, $620,472.

To correlate information on exports and imports during the past 25 years, $4,200.

To survey real property, the extent of its use, vacancy and overcrowding, $2,167,804.

To remove hindrances to the free passage of salmon up stream to spawning beds, $35,000.

To enable Indians to repair their own houses, $1,283,000.

Midwest Crops Face
New Southern Threat

Washington, D. C.—Federal census bureau reports from the South disclose new competition rising to face crop producers of the Middle West.

The census reveals that Alabama reduced her cotton acreage from 3,568,498 in 1930 to 2,180,062 in 1935, a drop of 1,498,436 acres. Chief reason was the AAA curtailment program.

During the same period corn acreage in the South jumped from 5,266,704 acres in the 1930 census to 7,278,261 acres in 1935, a gain of 2,051,557 acres.

Since the AAA reduced cotton acreage in Georgia, that state has produced 57,431 additional head of hogs. While hog production has been cut down 20 per cent in the corn belt, cotton belt farmers are permitted to raise more corn and hogs.

Debt Tops 30 Billions

Washington. — The United States faced the new year with the largest gross debt in its history, greater by approximately $4,000,000,000 than the war debt at its peak.

The debt stood at $30,557,000,000 December 31, as compared with $28,700,000,000 only six months before. The highest peak reached by the war-time debt was $28,594,000,000.

"EXTRA GIRL"

When Texas Centennial Exposition officials began to select the Rangerettes, hostesses for the Exposition, they planned to have one who was born in each of the 48 states. Then along came Mabel Rooks, shown above, and she passed the strict requirements. Officials found later she had been born in the District of Columbia, so they increased the corps to 50, giving themselves a little leeway in the matter of states.

Expo's Manager

William A. Webb, above, of Dallas, was named general manager of the Texas Centennial Exposition, which opens in Dallas June 6, because of his long experience in handling rush construction jobs.

A veteran railroadman, one of Mr. Webb's greatest accomplishments was rebuilding and remodeling the great South Australia government-operated railroad, a $70,000,000 project. He was recommended for the task, which he finished in 1931, by the U. S. Department of State.

Lack Stability

Fortunes made in no time are like shirts made in no time; it's ten to one if they hang long together.—Douglas Jerrold.

First Taste of Cocoa.

The manufacture of cocoa and chocolate, one of the principal industries of Holland, was introduced into that country as long ago as 1679.

Planning the farm program

The telephone will be a handy aid in your farm management during 1936. Every farmer needs his telephone, not only in emergencies, but also for the time and effort it will save in everyday farm affairs. Evidence of this is found in the large number of farm telephones now going back into service—telephones which were reluctantly given up during the past few years. The farmer who has a telephone is always in touch with markets and can buy and sell to his own best advantage. His family is always within voice range of neighbors, friends and relatives. The entire household enjoys the feeling of greater security which a telephone in the farm home always gives. The telephone will repay many times its small cost in satisfaction, convenience and protection. Order one now.

NEW ROAD BUILDING PROCESS PROMISES TO LIFT AMERICAN FARMER OUT OF MUD

New Highway Development Seen as Solution of Mud Menace. Waterproof, Mudless and Dustless Road Built For Less Than Cost of Graveling

KANSAS CITY, MO.—An upside-down process of road construction in which asphaltic oil is injected or "planted" several inches under the ground and allowed to penetrate or "grow" to the surface has been developed by highway engineers of Jackson County, Missouri, with the cooperation of the state highway department.

The process has attracted the attention of engineers from the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and from state and county highway departments who see in it possibilities of removing the mud menace from America's roads. Farmers and motorists see hope of finally being taken out of the mud, in view of the tremendous road-building funds available through federal agencies for extensive use of the process.

"Initially successful experiments," states E. V. Reagel, materials engineer of the Missouri Highway Department, "give promise of transforming a clay road quagmire into a smooth, firm and stable base. Preliminary results indicate the possibility, under certain traffic conditions, of eliminating, or greatly reducing the use of expensive types of road materials."

The usual method of silt roads merely by spreading oil on the surface has been reversed. In the new process, asphaltic oil, carefully suited to the soil by laboratory experiment, is spread several inches below the surface by a machine which operates in the manner of a corn or wheat planter. The oil penetrates smoothly and evenly to the surface, leaving an oil impregnated layer of earth of a pre-determined thickness.

After a short period of curing, the road is compacted by rollers and by traffic, leaving a firm and waterproof mixture of asphaltic oil and earth—mudless in rain or snow, dustless in the driest summer heat—a durable all-year road, capable of withstanding heavy traffic shocks.

Ordinarily, the road will be further improved by the addition of a bituminous surface or pavement except on roads carrying the lightest traffic.

The preliminary development reveals that smooth, mudless and dustless roads can be constructed with the new process for an original investment much lower than the cost of graveling. Maintenance costs will be far lower than for gravel. The cost will be still further reduced, engineers point out, when the process is used over an extensive network of roads.

The process has other advantages in that it lengthens the working season, as weather conditions offer a minimum of interference. Some of the test sections were constructed in the late fall when other road construction was halted. It is unnecessary to add gravel or crushed stone to the road base—a fact which further reduces the cost.

STATE OF ILLINOIS)

COUNTY OF WILL) SS:

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on the 7th day of January, 1936, the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Mokena passed a certain ordinance for the improvement and extension of a Waterworks System, a copy of which ordinance is as follows:

ORDINANCE
AN ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING AND PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUE OF $6,000.00 WATER REVENUE BONDS OF THE VILLAGE OF MOKENA FOR THE PURPOSE OF DEFRAYING THE COST OF THE EXTENSION AND IMPROVEMENT OF THE WATERWORKS SYSTEM OF SAID VILLAGE, PRESCRIBING ALL DETAILS OF SAID BONDS AND PROVIDING FOR THE COLLECTION, SEGREGATION AND DISTRIBUTION OF THE REVENUES OF THE WATERWORKS SYSTEM OF SAID VILLAGE FOR THE PURPOSE OF PAYING THE COST OF OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE THEREOF, ESTABLISHING AN ADEQUATE DEPRECIATION FUND THEREFOR AND PAYING THE PRINCIPAL OF AND INTEREST ON SAID WATER REVENUE BONDS.

WHEREAS, the present Waterworks System of the Village of Mokena is inadequate to supply the demands of the consumers of water and to provide ample fire protection; and it is deemed advisable, necessary and for the best interests of said Village of Mokena that following extension and improvement to the Waterworks System owned and operated by the Village of Mokena shall be constructed and installed viz: a connected system of 6 inch water distribution mains in Front Street, the public highway on the North and South Center Line of Section 8, Twp. 38 N., R. 12, E. of the 3rd P. M., First Street, Niedhammer Street, Third Street, Division Street, McGovney Street, Second Street, Marti Street, Denny Street and Mokena Street, in the Village of Mokena, County of Will and State of Illinois, all in accordance with plans and specifications therefor prepared for that purpose, now on file in the Office of the Village Clerk and open for public inspection; and

WHEREAS, the total estimated cost of the construction of such improvement as prepared by the engineers in charge thereof is the sum of Sixteen Thousand Nine Hundred Thirty-one and 90/100 Dollars ($16,931.90); and

WHEREAS, the Village of Mokena does not have sufficient funds available for the construction of said extension and improvement of its Waterworks System and it will be necessary that the Village of Mokena borrow the sum of Six Thousand Dollars ($6,000.00) and in evidence thereof to issue bonds therefor; and

WHEREAS, under the provisions of "An Act authorizing any city, village or incorporated town having a population of less than 500,000 to build or purchase and to operate a waterworks or water supply system either within or without the corporate limits thereof, and to improve and extend a waterworks system or water supply for public and domestic use and to provide for the cost thereof by the issue of revenue bonds payable solely from the revenues derived from the operation thereof," approved April 22, 1899, as amended, said Village of Mokena is authorized to issue Water Revenue Bonds for the purpose of paying the cost of construction of the extension and improvement; and

WHEREAS, the Village of Mokena has entered into an agreement with the United States of America, acting through the Federal Works Progress Administration whereby said Federal Works Progress Administration has agreed to make a grant to the Village of Mokena of part of the cost of the project;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF MOKENA as follows:

Section 1. That the cost of the extension and improvement of its Waterworks System as estimated by the engineer for the Village of Mokena is the sum of $16,931.90.

Section 2. That it is the intention of the Village of Mokena to pay the cost of said extension and improvement by means of a grant from the United States of America, acting through the Federal Works Progress Administration and through the issuance and sale of Water Revenue Bonds of said Village of Mokena for the difference between the actual cost of such improvement as aforesaid and the amount of the grant by said Federal Works Progress Administration.

Section 3. That the period of usefulness of said extension and improvement of said Waterworks System is hereby determined to be forty years.

Section 4. That to pay that part of the cost of construction of such extension and improvement to be borne by the Village of Mokena will require the issuance of $6,000.00 face principal amount of Water Revenue Bonds.

That said bonds be signed by the President, sealed with the corporate seal of said Village, and attested by the Village Clerk, and that the interest coupons attached to said bonds be executed by the facsimile signatures of said President and said Village Clerk, and said officials, by the execution of said bonds, shall adopt as and for their own proper signatures their respective facsimile signatures appearing on said coupons.

Said bonds, together with interest thereon, shall be payable solely from the revenues derived from the waterworks system of said Village, including all future improvements thereof and extensions thereto, and said bonds shall not, in any event, constitute an indebtedness of the Village of Mokena within the meaning of any constitutional or statutory limitations.

Any of said bonds may be registered as to principal at any time prior to maturity in the name of the holder on the books of said Village in the office of the Village Treasurer, such registration to be noted on the reverse side of the bonds by the Village Treasurer, and thereafter the principal of such registered bonds shall be payable only to the registered holder, his legal representative or assigns. Such registered bonds shall be transferable to another registered holder or back to bearer only upon presentation to the Village Treasurer, with a legal assignment duly acknowledged or approved. Section 7. That said bonds and coupons shall be in substantially the following form:

(Form of Bond)
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
STATE OF ILLINOIS, COUNTY OF WILL, VILLAGE OF MOKENA
WATER REVENUE BOND

No. $.....
KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, that the Village of Mokena, Will County, Illinois, for value received, hereby promises to pay to bearer, or if this bond be registered, as hereinafter provided, then to the registered holder hereof, solely from the Water Fund of the Village of Mokena as hereinafter mentioned and not otherwise, the sum of Dollars ($.....) on July 1, 19....., together with interest on said sum from date hereof until paid at the rate of five per cent (5 per cent) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July in each year upon presentation and surrender of the annexed interest coupons as they severally become due.

Both principal and interest of this bond are hereby made payable in any coin or currency which, on the respective dates of payment of principal of and interest on this bond, is legal tender for the payment of public and private debts, at the office of the Village Treasurer in the Village of Mokena, Illinois.

This bond is payable solely from revenues derived from the waterworks system of said Village including all future improvements thereof and extensions thereto, and not otherwise, and is issued under authority of "An Act authorizing any city, village or incorporated town having a population of less than 500,000 to build or purchase and to operate a waterworks or water supply system either within or without the corporate limits thereof, and to improve and extend a waterworks system or water supply for public and domestic use and to provide for the cost thereof by the issue of revenue bonds payable solely from the revenue derived from the operation thereof," approved April 22, 1899, as amended, for the purpose of paying the cost of the improvements of its presently owned municipal waterworks system and this bond does not constitute an indebtedness of said Village of Mokena within any constitutional or statutory limitation.

Under said Act and the ordinance adopted pursuant thereto, the entire revenues derived from the operation of the municipal waterworks system, including all future improvements thereof and extensions thereto, shall be deposited in a separate fund designated as the "Water Fund" of said Village of Mokena which shall be used only in paying the cost of operation and maintenance of said waterworks system, providing an adequate depreciation fund and paying the principal of and interest on the bonds of said Village of Mokena that are issued under authority of said Act and are payable by their terms only from the revenue of said waterworks system.

It is hereby certified and recited that all acts, conditions and things required to be done precedent to and in the issuance of this bond have been done and have happened and have been performed in regular and due form of law and that provision has been made for depositing in said Water Fund the entire revenues received from the operation of said waterworks system to be applied in the manner as hereinabove set forth.

This bond may be registered as to principal in the name of the holder on the books of said Village in the office of the Village Treasurer, such registration to be evidenced by notation of said Treasurer on the back hereof, after which no transfer hereof shall be valid unless made on said books and similarly noted hereon, but it may be discharged from such registration by being transferred to bearer, after which it shall be transferable by delivery, but it may again be registered as before. The registration of this bond shall not restrict the negotiability of the coupons by delivery merely.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, said Village of Mokena, Will County, Illinois, by its President and Board of Trustees has caused this bond to be signed by its President, its corporate seal to be hereto affixed and attested by the Village Clerk and the coupons hereto attached to be signed by the facsimile signature of said President and said Village Clerk, which officials by the execution of this bond, do adopt as and for their own proper signatures their respective facsimile signatures appearing on said coupons, and this bond to be dated the first day of January, 1936.

Section 8. That upon the issuance of any of the water revenue bonds herein provided for, the entire municipal waterworks system of said Village of Mokena, for the purpose of this ordinance shall be operated on a fiscal year basis commencing on the first day of January and ending the thirty-first day of December of each succeeding year. From and after the delivery of any bonds issued under the provisions of this ordinance, the entire revenues derived from the operation of the waterworks system of said Village of Mokena, including all future improvements thereof and extensions thereto, shall be set aside as collected and be deposited in a separate fund which is hereby created to be designated as the "Water Fund" of the Village of Mokena, which shall be used only in paying the cost of operation and maintenance of said waterworks system, providing an adequate depreciation fund, and paying the principal of and interest upon the water revenue bonds of said Village of Mokena that are payable by their terms only from such revenues, and such Water Fund shall be used only for such purposes.

Section 9. That there shall be established separate accounts in the Water Fund, to be designated severally the "Operation and Maintenance Account," the "Depreciation Account," and the "Bond Account," into which there shall be paid on the first business day of each month, all moneys held in the Water Fund, in accordance with the following provisions:

(a) There shall be paid into the Operation and Maintenance Account an amount sufficient to pay the reasonable expenses of operation and maintenance of said waterworks system for the period of one month;

(b) There shall be paid into the Depreciation Account a reasonable depreciation reserve, not exceeding an amount equal to one-twelfth of one per centum

(1-12 per cent) of the value of said waterworks system; (c) There shall be paid into the Bond Account an amount at least equal to one-sixth (1-6) of the interest becoming due on said bonds on the next succeeding interest payment date plus an amount at least equal to one-twelfth of the principal of said bonds becoming due on the next succeeding bond maturity date.

Section 10. That the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Mokena, having examined the existing waterworks system, and having considered the estimated cost of the extension and improvement herein proposed find that the existing waterworks system has a present fair value of $14,000.00 and that the said waterworks system when extended and improved by the completion of the work herein proposed will have a fair value of $30,931.90.

Section 11. That any surplus in the Operation and Maintenance Account may be transferred to either the Bond Account or the Depreciation Account as the governing body of the Village of Mokena may direct, and any moneys in the Depreciation Account in excess of the amount necessary for probable replacements to be needed during the then current fiscal year and the next ensuing year, as determined by the governing body of the Village of Mokena shall at once be transferred from the Depreciation Account to the Bond Account; provided, however, that such transfers from the Operation and Maintenance Account or the Depreciation Account to the Bond Account shall not operate as an abatement of the Bond Account requirements herein set forth.

Section 12. If on the first business day of any month the amounts held in the Water Fund are not sufficient to provide for all of the payments into the Bond Account herein required, then the amount of any deficiency in such payments shall be added to the amounts required to be paid into the Bond Account on the first business day of the next ensuing month.

When, and for so long as, all amounts held in the Bond Account, from whatever source received, shall be equal to the aggregate principal amount of all of said bonds remaining outstanding together with interest thereon to maturity, no further payments shall be made into the Bond Account from any source.

All amounts held in the Bond Account shall be used for the payment of interest on and principal of said bonds, and until so used shall be deposited in a bank or banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or may be invested in direct obligations of the United States Government.

Section 13. That, while any of said bonds remain outstanding or unpaid, rates charged for water shall be sufficient at all times to pay cost of operation and maintenance, to provide an adequate depreciation fund and to pay the interest on and principal of said bonds. There shall be charged against all users of water, including the Village of Mokena such rates and amounts for water service as shall be adequate to meet the requirements of this section. Compensation for services rendered the Village of Mokena shall be charged against the Village of Mokena and payment for the same from the corporate funds shall be made monthly into the Water Fund created by this ordinance as revenues derived from the operation of the waterworks system in the same manner as other revenues are required to be deposited.

Any holder of a bond or bonds or any of the coupons of any bond or bonds issued hereunder may, either in law or equity, by suit, action, mandamus or other proceeding, enforce or compel performance of all duties required by this ordinance, including the making and collecting of sufficient water rates for that purpose and application of income and revenue therefrom.

Section 14. That it is hereby covenanted and agreed that while any of said bonds are outstanding, no additional water revenue bonds shall be issued unless the revenues derived from the waterworks system, including all said improvements thereof and extensions thereto for the fiscal year then next preceding are sufficient (a) to pay all costs of operation and maintenance; (b) to provide an adequate depreciation fund; (c) to pay the principal and interest coming due in such year on all bonds then outstanding payable from the revenues of the waterworks system; (d) to pay one year's interest on the total issue of such additional bonds then proposed to be issued; and (e) to pay an amount of principal on such additional bonds equal to the amount of bonds which shall mature during the next following fiscal year.

Section 15. That the Village of Mokena hereby covenants and agrees with the holder or holders of said bonds that it will punctually perform all duties with reference to said waterworks system required by the constitution and laws of the State of Illinois, including the making and collecting of sufficient rates for water and segregating the revenues of said plant and the application of the respective funds created by this ordinance, and it hereby covenants and agrees not to sell, lease, loan, mortgage or in any manner dispose of or encumber said waterworks system, including all future improvements thereof and extensions thereto, until all of said bonds shall have been paid in full, both principal and interest, or unless and until provisions shall have been made for the payment thereof.

bonds that as long as any of said bonds remain outstanding it will maintain in good condition and continuously operate said waterworks system, and will, in order to protect the interests of said holders, continuously maintain insurance on said waterworks system of the same kind or kinds and in the same amount as that which would normally be maintained by a private company engaged in a similar type of business; provided that the Village of Mokena shall not be required to pay the cost of such insurance from any source other than from moneys in the Operation and Maintenance Account of said Water Fund.

Section 17. That the Village of Mokena hereby covenants and agrees with the holder or holders of said bonds that it will:

(a) Keep proper books of records and accounts (separate from all other records and accounts), in which complete and correct entries shall be made of all transactions relating to said waterworks system, and furnish to any holder of any of said bonds, upon written request, not more than thirty (30) days after the close of each semi-annual fiscal period, complete operating and income statements of said waterworks system, in reasonable detail, covering such semi-annual period, and not more than sixty (60) days after the close of each fiscal year, complete financial statements of said system covering such fiscal year, certified by the auditors of the Village of Mokena.

(b) Permit any holder or holders, or any purchaser, of not less than twenty-five per centum (25 per cent) in principal amount of said bonds then outstanding, to inspect at all reasonable times said waterworks system and all records, accounts and data relating thereto, and

(c) Furnish to any holder or holders, or any purchaser, of twenty-five per centum (25 per cent) in principal amount of said bonds then outstanding, all data and information relating to said waterworks system which may reasonably be requested.

Section 18. That the provisions of this ordinance shall constitute a contract between the Village of Mokena and the holders of the bonds herein authorized to be issued, and after the issuance of said bonds, no changes, additions or alterations of any kind shall be made until all of said bonds and the interest thereon shall have been paid in full, or unless and until provisions shall have been made for the payment thereof.

Section 19. That the proceeds from the sale of said bonds shall be used for the construction of said improvements to the waterworks system owned and operated by the Village of Mokena, more particularly described as follows:

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Taxes and Speed
SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—To reduce taxes and speed—these be our biggest problems at the moment.

While we go on, in response to the popular demand, producing cars capable of traveling 90 miles an hour over highways where traffic laws call for a legal limit of 45 or less, and selling those cars to anybody who has a residence address and a first down payment, there doesn't appear to be anything to do except pray and carry a card in the hat telling where remains are to be sent, also giving name and number of favorite hymn. As for taxes, they're like cockleburrs—very easy to pick up and almost impossible to get rid of, once you're stuck with them. And as for what the average citizen thinks of the legislators who gaily hang these ruinous burdens on us so that politicians may have more of somebody else's money to spend—well, you couldn't print that in a paper going through the United States mails.

Leisure of the Literati
SOCIAL note: Went to party. Among those present, the Fredric Marches, the Bud Leightons, the Johnnie Robinsons, Gloria Swanson, Hugh Walpole, Herbert Marshall, Constance Collier, Frank Lloyd. To be an evening devoted to intellectual discussion of literature, drama, the higher arts.

So all night we played a foolish game called "Who Am I?" When the game was called on account of sunrise, I was "it." I still am. In other words, while I have rough ideas what I may be—you ought to see some of the letters I get—it remains a deep mystery as to who I am, if at all.

I'd rather somebody else gave those big buffet suppers. Being host, you can't go home when you're bored, and, besides, along toward the end of the second week after the shindig, you do get so tired of aspic jelly for breakfast.

An Unusual Genius
HAVE you ever read the novel "Anthony Adverse," or even held the book on your lap until your knees went to sleep?

Some quit and went back to business after the fifth month. Others gave up everything else for the year and fought the good fight right through to the end. After that, they were ready to tackle something light and chaffy, such as the last six volumes of the encyclopedia.

Anyhow, if you were not included among those who bought this work or borrowed it—and that would put you in the minority, for it has sold close to a million copies—the above should give you a rough idea, so that you may share with me in this tribute to an authentic genius.

I've just met him. He's the director who has the job of putting "Anthony Adverse" into eight reels of moving picture film. Alongside of him, I contend, the fellow who engraved the Lord's Prayer on the head of a pin was just a piker.

The Ten Greatest Pests
I DON'T know when I've been so stirred up—just panting like a lizard on a hot rock. Every day, seems like, I read that a jury of experts has solemnly selected the ten best-groomed men. (Only horses had groomers when daddy was a boy.) Or the ten best-dressed women. Or the ten hottest hostesses, or the ten most ideally married couples; Hollywood entries barred for gouging in the clinics.

Now I hear they're picking the ten most prominent debutantes that our leading movie idol is likely to be snuck up on by. I can hardly wait. When the really vital competitions are closed, would it be asking too much of the judges to name, say, the ten human beings who contributed most to the world's betterment this past year? Or how about a better committee in each town to choose the ten worst cases for Christmas relief?

No, on second thought, I guess not. In such lists as these there's practically no sex appeal. Still Lincoln's Gettysburg address was sort of shy on sex appeal, too, wasn't it?

The League Elevator.
WITH Ethiopia convulsed by war, with Brazil having internal spasms and China crumbling under armed pressure from within and without, that faint squeaking sound coming out of Geneva, Switzerland, would seem to betoken continued plaintive protests on the part of the only great world movement which quit functioning before it ever began.

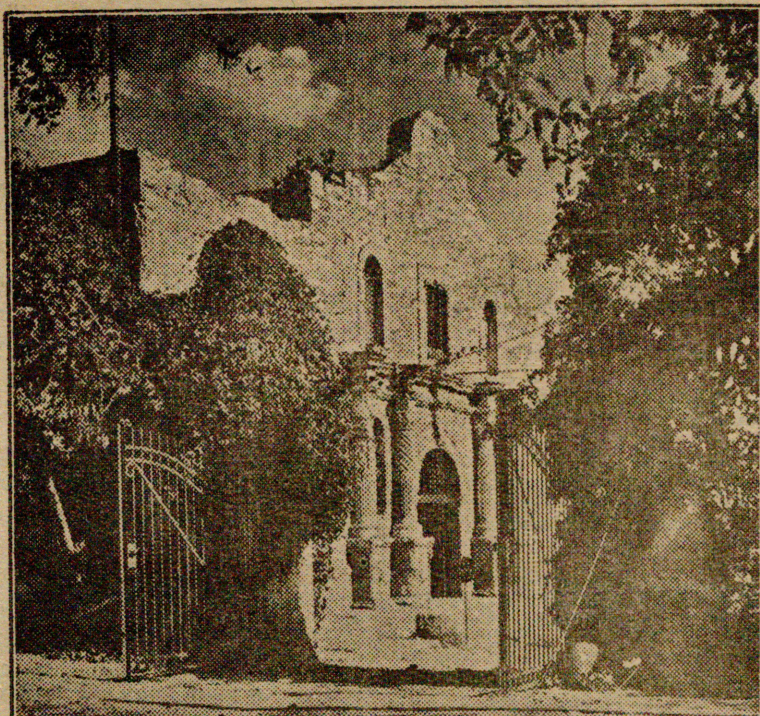

Mr. Interlocutor, why is the League of Nations like the elevator in the average small European hotel?

Well, Brother Bones, I really can't imagine why the League of Nations should resemble an elevator in a European hotel. Suppose you tell us.

Because, before they've even got it finished, the proprietor has little framed cards ready to be stuck up on every floor announcing that this elevator is out of order.

Sunset Over Historic Alamo

A Texas twilight adds softness to this photograph study of the Alamo Mission, historic Texas shrine of Liberty, in the center of San Antonio. Here 182 Texans died to a man, defending the mission in the revolution against Mexico. One hundred years later the Texas Centennial Exposition, opening at Dallas June 6, pays tribute to the Alamo's gallant defenders.

ADVENTURERS' CLUB

Hello, Everybody!

"From Out of the Fog"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter.

OUR guest artist on the Adventure Page, boys and girls, is Mr. Jesse Solomon. Jesse's adventure took place in August, 1929, in the Atlantic ocean just a few hundred yards from shore. He and a lifeguard friend of his were out in a lifeboat for an early morning row. The morning was foggy and a fairly heavy sea was running. The boys rowed for about ten minutes, then lay back in the boat to enjoy the motion and marvel at the mystery of the sea. Civilization seemed far away. The fog shut out the view of the shore. In their imagination they were shipwrecked sailors in the middle of the ocean.

Up the little boat would go one moment on the high crest of a wave and down it would go the next, with a sinking motion into the valley with the green sea all around them. Suddenly, however, their reverie was cut short by an indistinct swish in the water beside them. It seemed as if a human being were swimming alongside. Both boys sat up and looked at each other.

Swish! Once more a swimmer seemed to glide alongside their boat, and Jesse even thought he detected the dark shadow of a huge form. Again the boys looked at each other, this time a little more startled. Then they felt a slight shock against the side of the boat, as though some one had pushed it. They were puzzled and a little bit frightened. Just as they took hold of the oars and were about to row for shore, Jesse says, they witnessed the most bewildering and amazing sight either of them had ever beheld.

Out of the fog and into their vision came a terrifying parade. A school of gigantic fish were swimming all around their boat. They were right on the surface and even leaped completely out of the water at times, as though to see what the boat held. There were hundreds of them!

Surprised by a Threat From the Sea.

Jesse's first thought was of man-eating sharks, and his blood ran cold. Better get out of here right away. But on second thought both decided to stay quiet and let the boat wallow in the waves as though empty. On came the monsters of the deep. They seemed to be playing, and, as their dark, indistinct forms dove in and out of the water—close enough to touch—they splashed the startled boys with cold sea water.

One Fellow Jumped Clear Over the Boat.

One big fellow shot out of the water like a torpedo and jumped clear over the boat. The lifeguard got a glimpse of the heavy, but graceful, body as it went right between the two boys. He breathed a sigh of relief.

"Porpoises," he gasped; "we're in a school of them. They won't hurt us."

It Was Funny at First—But Not Now.

Jesse was amazed. Like most of us he had seen porpoises from the deck of a summer far at sea, but never close to land. They do come close to land, however, at some seasons, for the warmer water. This seemed to be their day of "shore leave."

Jesse says he felt reassured somewhat, knowing that the fish were not man-eaters, but the playful antics of the comedians of the sea were getting too close for comfort. They were diving under the boat now and the boys could feel slight shocks as the heavy bodies brushed against the boat's bottom.

Once more the boys reached for the oars. Enough was enough. They had just dipped the oars in the water, when—Zowie! A ton of fish and bone—porpoises are mammals like seals—hit the bottom of the boat with a crash. Boat and boys soared gracefully into the fog and came down with a mighty splash in the cold waters of the Atlantic. A monster porpoise had missed his dive and struck the light craft head on.

Thank Providence a Lifeboat Doesn't Sink.

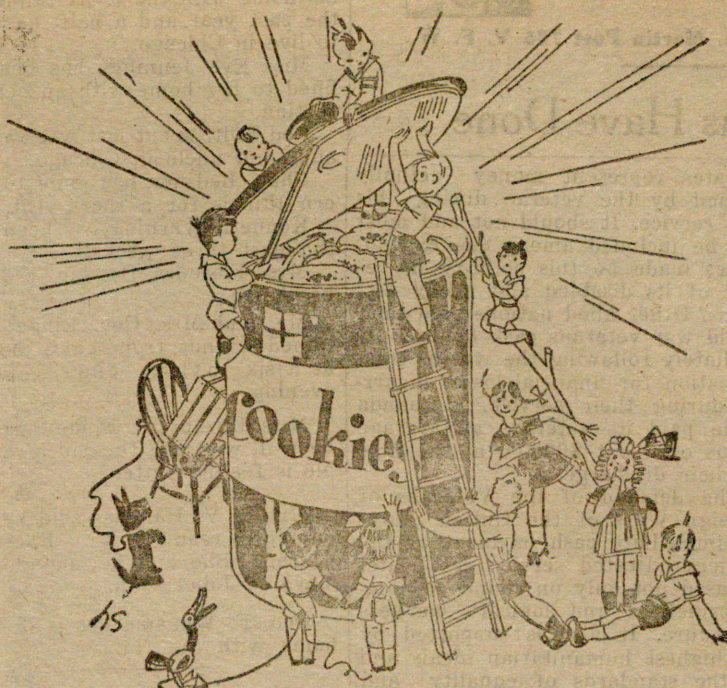

When the boys struggled to the surface they found their boat upside down. Jesse and the lifeguard had no trouble swimming over to it and holding on, but, Jesse says, he wasn't so sure that one of those fish wouldn't go man-eater on him and take a nip at his kicking legs. But they didn't. Satisfied with their practical joke, the fish swam off and left the boys alone to their thoughts and to the broad Atlantic ocean.

Fortunately lifeboats are made so they won't sink and they are also easy to right. Nobody on shore could see their plight because of a deep fog, but the boys went to work and righted the boat and then all they had to do was rescue the oars and steer with the waves for the beach. Which they did.

Then came the tough part. Nobody would believe their fish story until two days later when the body of a huge porpoise—with a big bump on his head—was washed ashore.

Modern Method of Making

COOKIES

"The children run from near and far To dip into the cookie jar."

THAT'S one of the immortal prerogatives of childhood. So prevalent is it, in fact, that a vast cookie baking industry has been built up to keep all the cookie jars in the country comfortably full so that children can exercise that prerogative.

But, after all, it's fun to surprise them. They all know the contents of the innumerable cartons of delicious cookies that save modern housewives so much preparation and baking. But when they plunge their eager hands into a cookie jar—a real old-fashioned cookie jar—which they know contains cookies made at home, the pleasure of uncertainty as to the nature of their treat is added to their anticipation of something delicious.

Apricots Inside!

Almond Apricot Squares: Cream one-half cup shortening and one-half cup sugar, add one well-beaten egg, and then one-fourth cup apricot purée. Sift together

Dried Apricot and Nut Cookies: Put one cup dried apricots through a food chopper. Then combine them with one and a half cups condensed milk, one cup canned moist coconut and one cup chopped nuts, drop by spoonfuls onto a greased baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, for from twelve to fifteen minutes. Makes about thirty cookies.

Molasses and Coconut

Molasses or Ginger Cookies: Boil one cup molasses a minute, add one cup sugar, one cup shortening, two teaspoons ginger, two teaspoons cinnamon and two well-beaten eggs. Add four teaspoons soda mixed with one-fourth cup vinegar. Add about five cups of flour to make a stiff dough. Roll thin. Cut as desired. Bake in a moderate—375 degrees—oven for about twelve minutes. Use also for making gingerbread men. May sprinkle with sugar before baking if desired.

Cocanut Burrs: Cream one-third cup shortening and three-fourths cup sugar, add one well-beaten egg and then one-third cup canned raspberries, mashed but not sieved. Sift together one and a half cups pastry flour, one and a half teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon soda and one-fourth teaspoon salt, and add. Add one cup bran and one cup canned moist coconut, and chill. Drop by small spoonfuls on a greased pan, about two inches apart. Bake in a moderate—350 degree—oven for about ten minutes. Makes three and a half dozen cookies.

two cups pastry flour, one-fourth teaspoon soda and a few grains salt, and add. Stir in two-thirds cup finely chopped blanched almonds. Chill well, roll very thin and cut in squares. Place on a greased sheet. Will not spread. Bake at 400 degrees, a hot oven, for eight or nine minutes. Makes five or six dozen cookies.

THERE'S A BRAND NEW IDEA IN

FLOYD GIBBONS' ADVENTURE CLUB

Which Will Be a Regular Feature of This Newspaper

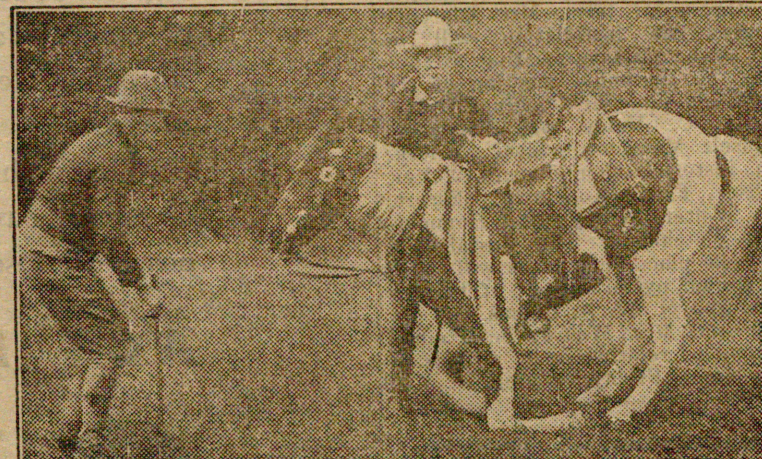

Gibbons, with a friend—a newspaper editor—dropped in to see a movie which happened to be of the "thriller" type. "Heck," said the friend, "those things couldn't happen in real life."

Right there, Gibbons made a bet that he could find people everywhere—right in every-day life, who have had experiences that would "knock the tar" out of the thrilling adventures that are portrayed in the movies or that are born in the minds of fiction writers.

Gibbons has won his bet, hands down, and this newspaper is privileged to publish the stories with which he is proving his point.

"The Best Trained Horse in Texas"

Captain Leonard Pack, chief of the Texas Ranger force at the Texas Centennial Exposition, puts his famous trained horse, Pinto, through his paces at Kiest Park, on the outskirts of Dallas. Assisting Captain Pack, who for 25 years has been one of the Southwest's best-known peace officers, is Jerry Wolfe, noted rodeo star. Pinto is said to be the best trained horse in the Lone Star State.

Tugwell's Middle Name Is Haste

In Less Than Five Months He Organized Staff of 12,089.

WASHINGTON.—To Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell goes the palm for speed in organizing a new governmental unit.

It is common knowledge that government bureaus and agencies can spring up like jack-in-the-box. No private business organization ever has been put together with the speed—and waste—that characterizes creation of a government agency once its birthright is established by congress or by executive order of the President.

Tugwell's 12,089 Employees.

Professor Tugwell, who is paid $10,000 a year as under-secretary of agriculture, is the rural resettlement administrator. When he was relieved of Agricultural department duties by President Roosevelt and told to carry out the resettlement plan, he developed an organization in a manner that left other officials gasping. Starting with only himself and his secretary, he built a staff embracing 12,089 in slightly less than five months, all on the government pay roll.

As resettlement administrator, it is Professor Tugwell's job to transfer farm families from rundown land to other parts of the country where they can make a living. Destitute and unemployed families in cities who are willing to become farmers also will be moved by Professor Tugwell. He will build farm homes, barns and outbuildings and equip them.

Distribution of Funds.

President Roosevelt gave Professor Tugwell $240,000,000 to use in this way, the conviction being that a vast amount of employment would be created in the building and equipping of these new farms.

To date, according to the latest figures made public by the President, the resettlement administration has been able to give work to its own staff of 12,089 and 5,012 unemployed who are working directly on the relief project. So, Professor Tugwell has a staff for management that is more than twice the number of unemployed who have been given jobs. His staff draws a total of $1,750,000 a month in salaries while the relief workers on the resettlement projects are being paid a total of $300,000 a month.

Potato Act to Cost

More than Dry Laws

Washington, D. C.—Operation of the New Deal's potato control act will be more costly than the enforcement of prohibition, a letter written by Rexford Guy Tugwell as acting secretary of agriculture and the reports of the bureau of industrial control, United States Treasury department, reveal.

"It appears that the first year's operation of the Potato Act will entail a cost of not less than $12,000,000," says Mr. Tugwell's letter, addressed to the house committee on agriculture. "This minimum estimate for effective operation covers merely the expenses of the Agricultural Adjustment administration during the first year of the act. The cost of printing and distributing stamps, as well as the enforcement and other activities of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, have not been included in the $12,000,000."

Twelve million dollars, according to the bureau of industrial control, is more than the cost of enforcing prohibition in any year before 1930. Enforcement costs increased each year during prohibition.

New Deal Puts U. S. in

"Hard Likker" Business

Washington.—The United States government, which for fourteen years imposed fines and prison sentences upon persons who manufactured liquor, has now gone into the business of manufacturing alcoholic liquor for sale to American citizens, under the sponsorship of the New Deal, according to Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior.

Ickes characterized the government-owned Virgin Islands rum plant as "one of the most successful ventures we've gone into" in the $3,300,000 PWA program. He said the government would be able to offer Americans Virgin Islands rum about the first of March.

"We now have some experts working out a recipe for a special Virgin Islands cocktail," he added.

Public Debt Soars

Washington.—Treasury figures, released as the second session of the Seventy-fourth congress opened, revealed that mounting expenditures added $1,857,000,000 to the gross federal debt during the first half of the current fiscal year. Between June 30, 1935, and December 31, the federal government spent $3,781,660,702, while revenues during the same period were only $1,924,000,500, leaving a deficit of $1,857,660,202, which compared with a deficit of $1,699,935,397 a year ago.

Depreciation of the Dollar.

In the world markets today the American dollar is worth only 59.06 cents. While we still think of it as representing 100 cents, it actually buys merchandise to a value of only 59.06 cents.

What Other Nations Have Done

Opponents of immediate cash payment of adjusted service certificates may be divided into two groups. One comprise those persons who are more or less indifferent to the entire subject. These do little harm because their opposition is passive, rather than active. The other group, because it is self-seeking, because it has a selfish purpose and it deliberately and repeatedly distorts and misrepresents facts in its campaign against payment of the certificates, constitutes a real and dangerous enemy to the cause of veteran welfare and to the patriotic ideals of this country.

That the United States is doing more for its veterans than any other country which participated in the world war is a statement frequently proffered in opposition to immediate cash payment of adjusted service certificates.

The statement is false, it is misleading and it can be refuted by figures and tables compiled from data in our own Library of Congress and published at various times in the Congressional Record.

In relation to its national wealth and income, the United States government is paying in compensation to its disabled world war veterans only one-half, one-third or even less of the amount being paid by other nations to their world war veterans. Based on our national wealth per thousand dollars, the United States is paying its veterans $1.29 as compared to $1.93 by Great Britain; $2.03 by Canada; $2.74 by Italy; $5.64 by France and $6.22 by Germany! Based on our national income per thousand dollars, the United States is paying its veterans $6.83 as compared to $42.28 by France; $19.64 by Germany; $13.28 by Italy; $11.01 by Great Britain and $10.15 by Canada.

Opponents of veteran welfare legislation and payment of the adjusted service certificates have repeatedly stated that the United States has spent approximately $2,700 on each of its world war veterans as compared with an average of about $53.00 spent for the same purpose by the major powers of the world war. This statement, too, is deliberately misleading. In the first place, it based on the supposition that the United States in the year 1932, for example, spent more than $860,000,000 on its world war veterans. Approximately $310,000,000 of those $860,000,000 represented an appropriation for the adjusted service certificate fund. It was not given to veterans or paid to veterans—it was loaned to veterans at four per cent compound interest. It was their own money, in other words, and they were charged four per cent compound interest for the use of it and yet it was included in the total alleged to have been "expended" in behalf of the veterans! Another 125 million of those 860 million dollars was for insurance for which the veterans themselves paid. It was not given to them. They paid and are still paying monthly premiums as does any other citizen who holds a policy with an insurance company.

Deduct these two items from the figures given as veteran expenditures and there remains 425 million dollars, less than one-half of the 860 millions falsely attributed to veteran expenditures. It should be remembered also that France, Germany, England and the other participating nations of the world war have various relief measures for their veterans which are not in force in this country. Many veterans of those nations are cared for under general laws for the aged, distressed, unemployed, orphans, widows, etc., which are not charged to veterans relief at all. There are also many other provisions in those countries which are of financial benefit to the veteran. France, for instance, allows all of its veterans half-fare on railroads, steamships, street cars and buses, gives free transportation to blind veterans and allows them half-fare for their aides or guides. The French disabled veteran also has preference in any government employment, he is given assistance in his insurance payments, allowed rebates on certain taxes and special grants for the purpose of homes or businesses.

The fact is, that in order to claim that the United States has done more for its world war veterans than any other nation, it is necessary to base all figures, not upon national wealth, not upon national income, but upon the number of dead and wounded. Such a basis outrages every requirement of justice and decency. The only fair basis for this computation should be the financial ability of the country to pay. The people of the United States proudly claim that our standards of living, our workmen's wages, our living and housing conditions and social benefits such as the care of our needy, helpless and sick, are the highest and finest in the world. We restrict our immigration and raise high tariff walls against the import of foreign manufactured goods so that the wage scale of our citizens need not be lowered to compete with those of other nations and races.

Can we ignore these standards and principles, can we forget our pride in our civilization and modern progress in considering the ex-service men who contributed so greatly to the foremost position the United States occupies among all the nations of the world?

Apart from all this remains the fact, as you know, that adjusted service certificates cannot justly be included among the benefits this country has given its veterans. The certificates represent money actually earned by the veteran during his war service. It should not and must not be included among the expenditures made by this country in behalf of its disabled and needy veterans. Other allied nations paid their world war veterans cash bonuses immediately following the war as compensation for financial losses incurred during their service. Canada alone paid its veterans an average bonus of about $600.00 at the time of their discharge.

The demand of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States for immediate cash payment of the soldiers adjusted service certificates is based not only on sound economic principles and logical business procedure. It also is supported by the highest humanitarian ideals and by the standards of equality and justice which all the citizens of the United States rightfully expect as their natural heritage.

Polish Little Pigs Go to American Markets

Hollywood, Calif.—Walt Disney's three little pigs may yet be dancing the polka instead of their sprightly American jig, if the Polish influence on the American pork market, revealed by the Department of Commerce, continues to increase.

With an estimated 13,000,000 little pigs unborn in America this year, because of the AAA program, imports of ham, bacon and shoulders from Poland and the Free City of Danzig increased 908 per cent for the first nine months of 1935 over the same period in 1934. The pork import from this source alone during the first three quarters of 1935 was greater than the total pork import from all foreign countries combined during 1934.

Market reports reaching the Chicago stock yards said that, while our government pays farmers not to raise pigs, Polish farmers are planning to increase hog production rapidly.

800,079 Civilian Employees

Washington, D. C.—The civil service commission report issued on January 4 shows a continued increase in the number of civilian employees of the government. On December 1 there was a total of 800,079 of these civilian employees on the payroll, exclusive of the legislative, judicial or military branches of the government. The increase during the month of November was 3,782. The number of employees includes both those who are under civil service and those who are not.

Still 11,000,000 Unemployed

In the spring and summer of 1933 there were approximately 11,000,000 unemployed in the United States. Since that time congress, under the direction of President Roosevelt, appropriated eight billions of dollars for the purpose of creating a demand for products and so reduce unemployment. The last of the eight billion will have been spent before July 1 of this year, but at the close of 1935 there were 11,000,000 still unemployed.

Garth himself was ready to quit when, in the twilight, they came down to where the steep pitch eased off on a small patch of tundra. He opened his pack and spread the blanket on the dry gravel in a hole under a pile of boulders.

At sight of the fat with the frozen caribou and smoked moose meat in the pack, Lillith at once gathered dry moss. This time the raw caribou flesh was seared over a fat-fed fire of the moss before being eaten. After the meal, Garth opened the gold-mounted cigar case and handed one of the Havanas to its owner.

Mr. Ramill hastily bit off the end and lighted the cigar in the flame of the fat and moss fire. As he put it to his lips he hesitated, then, with a perceptible effort, he turned to offer it to his daughter.

"Uh—ladies first, my dear." Lillith started to thrust out her hand. Something seemed to catch it. She glanced at Garth and stood up.

"You need it more than I do, Dad. Good night, everybody. I'm dog tired."

Her father and Huxby looked at each other in astonishment. Garth was less surprised. He smiled to himself as he put more moss and fat on the fire and coiled up beside it.

The short nights were already getting longer and darker. When awakened by the chill of midnight, Garth saw Huxby lying on the other side of the fire hole. The fire had burnt out. He built a new one. As its small flame lightened the darkness, he saw the half-inch stub of the cigar clutched in Huxby's fingers.

Before sunrise, Garth was again awake. He filled the little pot with ice and set it in the edge of the rebuilt fire, then began cooking caribou meat. The others awakened almost too stiff to move. But all managed another big meal of the meat. To top it off, Garth had Lillith boil a little tea in the water from the melted ice.

After the hot drink, even Mr. Ramill managed to hobble down the now fairly easy slope. The exercise gradually warmed and relaxed stiffened muscles.

The end of a long day's hike at last brought the party down the miles of tundra slopes to the edge of timberline. There was no trail—none at least that the city dwellers could detect.

Time and again Huxby declared that Garth was lost no less utterly than the rest of them; that he was wandering at random. To silence the cavalier, Garth began foretelling small landmarks before they came into view. This at last forced the engineer to realize that their guide was following his former trail through the forest maze as surely as if it were a beaten path.

The most positive proofs of all were the mounds of dirt-covered ashes where Garth had smothered his camp fires going to the lost valley and returning from it to the Mackenzie.

He predicted they would reach canoe water on the seventh day. But during that morning Mr. Ramill turned an ankle. Even after much soaking in a cold spring and tight bandaging by Garth, the sprain held the millionaire down to a slow hobble. An aspen staff enabled him to travel slowly until the noon meal. After that the pain overcame him. He refused to move.

Garth looked doubtfully at the none too large supply of food that was left. His pack now weighed little more than the platinum alloy in Huxby's wolf-skin knapsack.

He had allowed everyone to eat without stint. That had been necessary in order to keep up the strength of the chechachos. But, as he had foretold, the country was barren of game. There was none too much meat left in his pack.

"If you can't carry on, Mr. Ramill, you'll have to stay here and keep bathing your ankle in this rill," he said. "We're too short of food, though, to lose any time. The stand of birch at the stream is so small that I'll need a full three days to build our canoe. The three of you follow down this brook as soon as you can."

When he picked up a few pieces of meat and the rifle, Huxby spoke: "I should have the gun to protect Miss Ramill."

"There's nothing here to attack you," Garth replied. "Just possibly, I may find game at the stream."

"Could another pair of hands be helpful in making the canoe?" Lillith asked.

"Well—yes."

The girl looked at Huxby. He did not speak or move. She stood up. "Dad, you'll be all right with Vivian. I am going to help Alan."

Her father shook his head. "You should stay here with me. Let Vivian go."

Huxby rose, frowning. He looked at Garth with cold rancor. "I see no need for anyone to go. I certainly cannot permit my fiancée to accompany you."

"She might have helped. You'd be only a hindrance," Garth replied.

He swung away at a rapid pace. But behind him he heard the girl speak sharply: "Don't be silly, Vivian. Get out of my way."

After that came a quick patter of moccasins. Garth kept on for some distance as if he did not hear the sound. Then he halted behind an alder thicket to face the girl. She was so close behind that she almost ran into him. He smiled into her eager eyes.

"This is a happy surprise, Lillith." Her eyelids sank, and her cheeks crimsoned under their coat of pitch-and-grease mosquito dope. "You needn't fancy I'm running after you. It's—it's only because I want to get out of this beastly North country of yours—and be rid of you, too!"

"So that's it. Well, you're a good hater, but you're a real sport. You're game. Tag along, if you wish."

He set off again at a pace twice as fast as the best her father had been able to travel. An occasional snap of a twig behind him told that the girl was still following. Yet he did not once slacken his gait or look back until, three hours later, the brook began to meander through a stretch of muskeg.

At the edge of the swamp he stopped beside a game trail. Lillith came up beside him, breathing deeply from the long and rapid walk. He pointed to the big water-filled hoof prints in the mud.

"We may be in luck. Moose passed here yesterday—the water is clear in the tracks. They may not have gone too far. Stay here, or be quiet."

An upturned leaf showed that the wind was in his favor. He started along the trail. The tracks were still a day old when they turned out into the muskeg toward a lily pool. A mother swan and her brood of cygnets were swimming around the lily pads.

Garth skirted on along the border of the swamp to where a bend of the stream twisted in close to dry ground. Here was the grove of birch of which he had spoken. He pointed to the fringe of willows below the birch.

Those bitten twigs—still white. They've been eaten off less than an hour ago. Stay here."

After another test of the wind, he went ahead alone, silent as a lynx. Luck was with him. As he rounded the bend he saw the immense antlers of an old bull moose rise above the willows on the bank. Before the startled beast could plunge into the water Garth dropped him with a bullet through the brain.

At the crash of the shot, three moose cows with calves broke cover beyond the bull. The distance was considerable and brush obscured Garth's aim. He had to shoot four times to bring down one cow and her calf. But that was enough.

His shout brought Lillith on the run. She looked delightedly at the bull. "Oh, no chance now of starving!"

"That's not all," he said. "I can build a hide canoe in two days; a better one than can be made from those small birches."

When, a day later, Mr. Ramill came limping after Huxby to the smoke-marked camp, Lillith was still hanging moose meat on alder poles over the smudge-fire.

Huxby dropped his full-stuffed knapsack and wiped his sweaty forehead with the back of his hand.

"Pah! To think I've lugged all that old meat, and he's killed again. Why didn't he come back and tell me?"

The girl gave him an odd glance. "We've been too busy, old dear. Where's the blanket?"

"I couldn't pack everything. If I'd known, I could have left this confounded smoked moose and brought the blanket instead."

"Why not have left your load of metal? Didn't you consider that Dad and I will get far more than fifteen thousand dollars' worth of comfort out of that blanket?"

His lips tightened. "Sorry, darling. The thought of a common dirty blanket as against all the platinum—I did not even think of it. Now of course I realize. But it's too late."

"Yes," she agreed, "it's too late. Dad, you were a real sport not to wait for Alan to come back and carry you."

The millionaire had slumped down to rub his swollen ankle. He looked up at Huxby, with a bantering smile. "We couldn't permit our girl to elope with a woods vagabond, could we, Vivian?"

The engineer did not smile. His face went blank. "Where is that roughneck, Lillith?"

"Down in the willows, working hard for us. Won't you be glad when we're rid of him?"

"Won't you?"

"Well, I'm not so sure as I was. At present he is far more agreeable company than you are."

Huxby stiffened and went off towards the willows without any reply. Mr. Ramill peered up shrewdly at his daughter.

"That was pretty hard even from you, Lillith. Try to keep in mind how matters will stand as soon as we get out of this damnable mess. Remember that Vivian is my partner in the profits of all our Northwest Territory deals. Garth is responsible for our being marooned in this woods hell. He set the plane adrift to go to smash over those falls."

For a long moment Lillith Ramill stood silent. She looked down at her grimy tattered sports suit, at her bloodsmear hands and broken finger nails. The dimmed glitter of the diamond in her engagement ring failed to hold her gaze. It passed on down to her foxskin leggings and moosehide moccasins.

"Squaw," she murmured. "Dirty squaw! He certainly has put us through the mill. And more to come! We're not yet out of the woods. Dad, do you still have Vivian's pistol?"

"Why, no. He asked me for it this morning. Said that the less weight I carried, the better for me."

She reached down a hand to help him to his feet.

"Listen, Dad. No matter how much we hate Alan Garth, we'll never get out of the muskies without him. Haven't you noticed Vivian's eyes? You must ask him to give you back the pistol."

"But—it's his. And to rasp his self-esteem with such an intimation of distrust—"

"What's more important—his feelings or Alan's guidance—if anything happens to Alan—Make some excuse."

Mr. Ramill got to his feet and limped beside her down to the stream bank. Huxby stood with his morose gaze fixed upon Garth, who was tying willow ribs on the gunwale of his canoe frame with rawhide thongs.

The millionaire spoke in a casual tone: "How long will it take to put on the birch bark?"

"We'll use the moose hides, sir. They weigh more but will be much stronger. You might ask Huxby to chop down a birch and cut it into five-foot lengths. We'll have to split the wood to make paddles."

"So?" Mr. Ramill turned to his prospective son-in-law. "You may as well return the pistol to me, Vivian."

"Squaw," She murmured. "Dirty Squaw!"

It will hamper your chopping, and as we're now to be in a canoe, its weight will not bother me."

Huxby sat motionless, taken aback. Before he could think of an excuse to refuse, he met Garth's coolly inquiring gaze. He turned away and drew the pistol from inside his tattered coat, with a show of careless indifference. In the same offhand manner, he picked up the belt-ax and went to hack at the base of the nearest birch tree.

Another day saw the canoe complete. The cow and bull hides, gummed and sewn together, formed the cover, hair side in. The result was a craft large enough for the party but shorter and broader than the average canoe.

At Garth's suggestion, Lillith had begun tanning the calfskin. Mr. Ramill tended the smudge-fire. After cutting the birch billets, Huxby had at first sat around brooding. Then, suddenly, he went off up the brook. He did not come back until after the canoe was finished. But he brought the abandoned blanket.

Garth was beginning to shape into paddles the slabs of wood that he had rived from the birch billets. He glanced from the blanket to the clouds overhead, and from them to Lillith's tattered skirt.

"Not half bad, Huxby. That blanket will soon be needed. Too splendid a sunrise this morning. We're in for a storm. Miss Ramill, that calfskin is cured enough for you to wear. Make a skirt of it."

"How about Vivian's shoes?" she asked. "He's walking on his uppers."

"He's welcome to my old moccasins. They may last out our portages."

Though Huxby's ears reddened, he accepted the castoff footgear of the man from whom he had sought to bilk a claim worth at least a million dollars. He could not refuse. His thick shoe soles had scuffed through on the rocks that the plant rawhide moccasins passed over with slight wear.

When Garth launched the canoe, he fastened it to the bank with a line made from the trimmings of the moose hides. For anchor he used the wolf-skin knapsack with its weight of platinum alloy.

"May as well make it useful," he met Huxby's look of moody protest.

"You are to have the bow seat, and so can continue to guard my 60 per cent, along with—"

A clap of thunder and the swish of a wind gust through the birch tops checked Garth's banter. He spoke a quick order: "Leanto the blanket on that knoll between the trees, front this way."

A glance at the onrushing black clouds of the thunderstorm sent even Huxby hurrying to help the others. While they tied the upper corners of the blanket with rawhide thongs and weighted the back edge with logs, Garth pulled the canoe ashore and placed it bottom up over the smoke racks.

When, three hours later, the crashing thunderstorm passed over and the heavy downpour of rain ceased, all the party were wet from the drip through the blanket. But the fire still smoldered and the half-smoked meat was dry under the canoe.

"Had you been used to canoeing," Garth said, "we need not have lost all this time. But you'll get enough drenchings later on. Wring out the blanket and fetch the meat."

He launched the canoe again, unaided, and directed the others to their places. All had to kneel, facing the narrower prow of the double-stemmed craft. First came Huxby, with his wolfskin treasure bag for knee-pad. Lillith knelt on the front part of the lengthwise folded blanket. Her father had the end of the blanket behind her. At the wobble of the unsteady craft, he squatted back on his heels and clutched the gunwales.

The others held to willow branches while Garth loaded in the meat behind his own place. He stepped aboard and began to paddle with a steady stroke that sent the canoe gliding out into the swamp stream.

A paddle lay beside each of the others. Lillith was first to dip hers overboard. At a murmured word from her, Huxby followed suit. Both of them had done a bit of amateur canoeing at the fashionable beaches. They were able to start in at once and help a little. But two days passed before Mr. Ramill gained enough balance and assurance to rise on his knees and try stroking his paddle.

Left-Handedness Occurs in Four to Eight Per Cent

There are various theories concerning left-handedness, some believing it a matter of heredity, others claiming it is due to instinct or socially acquired habit. The percentage of left-handedness among normal individuals is estimated to run from 4 to 8 per cent, says a writer in the Detroit News. Statistics published by the Journal of Heredity have shown that in families with one or both parents left-handed, a much higher percentage of the children are left-handed. Authorities have told child behavior experts that the nervous systems of left-handed persons are attuned to left-sided makeup in which the left eye dominates. To attempt a distortion of this makeup by forcing the person into right-handed action results in throwing the whole nervous system out of balance, and the child may be made "irritable, pugnacious, seclusive and tending toward theft, lying and tantrums." On the other hand, if left to work out their own left-handed destinies, these persons are fully as bright as any right-handed person. Another authority has shown that when the naturally preferred left hand is interfered with, as is often done, the general dominance of that hand is not affected by the change but may be strengthened by this action.

Bridal Beads

When the Borneo maiden becomes a bride her gown has no graceful train or entrancing veil. Instead she dresses herself in a bead garment of bathing-suit proportions. The Borneo bride is decidedly décollete, for her bridal array covers her body only from below the armpits to the knees. Her costume for this momentous occasion is decorated solely with beads, which cover the entire gown and form designs of native origin. The hem of the dress is decorated with a long fringe.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Boarded Wrong Ships

When the American revolution broke out Britain's admiralty offered a large money reward and three years' exemption from service to any of her seamen who embarked on board an American ship and made themselves masters of her. Unfortunately for Britain, Englishmen who sought for the rewards did not always trouble to distinguish between American and French ships, inflaming France and hastening France's alliance with America.

The Oldest Plow

What is believed to be the oldest plow in the world is exhibited at the Provincial museum, Hanover. A wooden plow discovered on a moor in West Friesland, it affords an interesting insight into the agricultural methods employed in lower Saxony in prehistoric times. Its age is estimated to be between 5,000 and 6,000 years.

Lesson for January 12

SIMEON'S PROPHECY

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:25-35, 40.
GOLDEN TEXT—Mine eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all people.—Luke 2:30, 31.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Simeon Saw Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Why Simeon Rejoiced.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Jesus Can Do for the World.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus, the Hope of All Nations.

The occasion which brought Simeon to recognize Jesus as the Messiah was his being offered to the Lord by Mary and Joseph. According to the Jewish custom (Lev. 12), at the age of eight days the male child was circumcised and thus made a member of the covenant nation. In this case the child was given the name "Jesus" which indicated his mission (vv. 22-24). Then at the end of 40 days he was offered to the Lord on the basis of the original redemption purpose, which was the priesthood of the first-born, and not according to the Levitical order (Exod. 13:2; cf. 32:26). The offering in such case was a lamb for such as could afford it, but for the poor a pair of turtle doves or pigeons was adequate. The Savior thus came to the level of the poor.

I. Simeon's Character (v. 25).

1. Upright. He sustained a right relation to his fellow men. He was "just."

2. Devout. He was of such a character as to enjoy personal fellowship with God.

3. Waiting for the "consolation of Israel"—Messiah. Waiting for the fulfillment of the divine purpose in the coming of Messiah had a blessed effect upon his life, inducing righteousness and godliness. Waiting for the second coming of Christ is set forth in the New Testament as having a salutary effect upon believers (I John 3:3; I Thess. 1:9, 10).

4. Under the sway of the Holy Spirit. One thus enabled would be in a condition to recognize the Messiah. A spiritual mind is absolutely essential in order to discern the divine purpose (I Cor. 2:14).

II. Simeon's Revelation (vv. 26-28).

He was assured that he should not die until he had seen the Lord's Christ. When Christ was brought to the temple, the Holy Spirit upon Simeon enabled him to discern the babe as the promised one. Happy is the one whose character and spiritual experience is such that he can discern the presence of the Lord. Truly it is in him that we live and move and have our being. To be in this state is to practice the presence of God. So definitely was he led by the Spirit that when Mary and Joseph brought Jesus into the temple, he took him up in his arms and blessed God, indicating his personal and affectionate appropriation of the Messiah as his Savior and Lord.

III. Simeon's Song (vv. 29-32).

This is the song known as the "Nunc Dimittis," so named from the Latin words with which it begins.

1. He prays for a peaceable departure (v. 29). Perhaps it was more than a prayer; it was praise to God that now he is having a blessed departure out of this life, having seen and handled the Savior. Truly blessed are the dead who died in the Lord.

2. He praises God for a world-wide salvation (vv. 30-32). The "Nunc Dimittis" is the universal song, thus dimly differing from the "Magnificat" in that it is wider than the Jewish hope. Simeon saw Christ as the Light to reveal salvation to the Gentiles. This is the true glory of Israel. It is in keeping with the divine purpose in calling and disciplining this nation to make it the channel through which he might bless all the peoples of the world (Gen. 12:1-3).

IV. Simeon Blessed Joseph and Mary. The revelation through Simeon caused them to marvel. To have such wonderful predictions made concerning their Babe filled them with amazement. His blessing contained wonderful and even dark words of prophecy.

1. "This child is set for the fall and rising again of many in Israel." This means that Christ was to be a touchstone—destiny would be determined by the attitude of the people toward him. How definitely this has been fulfilled in the experience of that people!

2. "A sign which shall be spoken against." This had definite fulfillment in Israel and is being fulfilled today among many peoples.

3. A sword was to pierce Mary's soul. This perhaps refers to her suffering as she entered into sympathy with his unutterable suffering as he went to the cross, and her desolation afterward.

The Day of Rest

God's altar stands from Sunday to Sunday, and the seventh day is no more for religion than any other—it is for rest. The whole seven are for religion, and one of them for rest, for instruction, for social worship, for gaining strength for the other six.—H. W. Beecher.

Happiness

One of the first steps to contentment and happiness is to learn not to begrudge other people the things they have because you cannot have them.

Household Questions

Ferns grow and thrive in suspended window baskets if soil is kept moist and not allowed to dry out.

Keep a roll of glued paper and a ball of twine in your kitchen to use when tying and labeling bundles.

Chilling makes rolled cookie dough firm and easy to roll without the addition of extra flour.

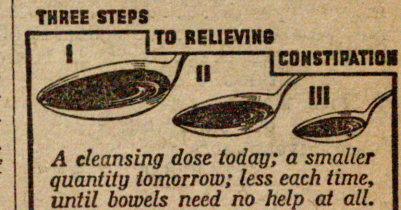

A pall of sand should always be kept near the furnace in the cellar. Should a spark from the furnace start a blaze it may be quickly extinguished with the sand.

Place a loaf of cake as near the center of oven as possible. If placed close to the firebox one side of cake will rise higher than the other and is likely to burn.

Hot Debate

To explain how disturbing to certain lines of industry this thing can be, it is only necessary to recall events of the last month or so in connection with the sanctions proposed by the League of Nations. The League has tried force the dictator, Mussolini, to withdraw from Africa by the use of e bargoes, which is what sanctions a The League proceeded with considerable vigor until it reached the question of oil. Immediately, shoes began pinch and the feet that were pinched were in every country where oil found, even our own.

As a result, they have led the horse up to the watering trough for a half dozen different approaches h they have not yet been able to make him drink. Our own oil interests have not been quiescent. If the league ban oil shipments to Italy, the United States, which is not a member of the league, obviously will do likewise. Profits of the oil companies and the hundreds upon hundreds of thousands of shareholders would be cut.

Further, Mussolini has announced publicly that imposition of the embargo upon oil would mean war. I did not say with whom he would go to war but the British and the French know and they are getting ready. The British has its entire home fleet in the Mediterranean at this time and the Blue Jackets aboard the British men of war have been drilled thoroughly in the science of manning the big guns.

So it is seen how delicate this whole circumstance is. It is plain that where congress deals with the neutrality legislation, it is moulding a pattern over which there will be undoubtedly an alignment among our citizens as sharply drawn as though it were a purely domestic question. There will be those, of course, who favor a permanent policy which will make it mandatory upon the President to apply embargo against shipments of anything usable in war and treat all nations engaged war alike. There will be set off again in this sentiment those who think the Chief Executive should have discretionary power and that the government should not be placed in a strait-jacket from which it cannot extricate itself without congressional action. Whatever the conclusions may be and whatever form the new legislation take, it remains as one of the most important policies to come before congress in many moons. Whatever is done necessarily will be a precedent toward which future generations will look in time goes on whether civilization becomes more enlightened or not.

The Treasury, operating on a fiscal year that runs from July 1 to June 30, has just passed the halfway-point in the current 12-month period. The figures show that its receipts are lagging far behind the expenditures, and demonstrates the necessity for cutting down the federal outgo unless the nation desires to see its public debt go far beyond any total hitherto conceived.

The official Treasury statement of December 30 shows that the government has spent approximately $850,000,000 more in the first six months of this fiscal year than it received in taxes and other revenue.

In consequence of this deficit, the public debt is now approaching $10,000,000,000.

000,000,000, the highest point it ever has reached and that total is roughly two billion dollars higher than the public debt as it stood last July 1 when the present fiscal year began.

Since the expenditures were so much larger than the receipts, the Treasury has been operating on a basis that, reduced to the minimum, shows an outgo of about $1.96 for every $1.00 collected in revenue during the first half of the current year.

Many Arson Fires

In the United States today a house or other structure is willfully set fire—for insurance, excitement or revenge—on an average of once every 105 minutes, despite the fact that a son fires are usually easy to detect and the punishment is severe. In six states conviction calls for the death penalty and, in 14 others, it results in either life imprisonment or a 20-year sentence.

She Tells Them How to Park

Dallas, site of the Texas Centennial Exposition next year, has installed parking meters on its main downtown streets. For a nickel in the slot, motorists may leave their car beside the meter for periods from 20 minutes to one hour, according to the time marked on each meter. An additional nickel extends the period.

Clarice Mollenkamp, of the Exposi-

she tours the streets, the Exposition's ambassador of good-will, to explain to out-of-town motorists just how the meters work.

A meter, indicated by the arrow,
can be seen directly behind the horse, which, incidentally, is Texas, famous
"yellow pony" owned by Captain Leonard Pack, head of the Exposition's Texas Ranger squad.

Delicious Dishes
Made
With

PEAS may be green, but they need no one to defend them when it comes to the question of making up-to-date dishes. They have myriads of friends, and the only question that remains is in what course to serve them at as many meals as possible. Salad courses are served at both lunch and dinner, so here are some salad recipes to help you serve peas at one or both of these meals.

Pea and Lettuce Salad: Drain
one cup of canned peas and marinate in two tablespoons French dressing for at least one hour.
Add one-fourth cup chopped walnuts, one-fourth cup crisp shredded lettuce and one-fourth cup mayonnaise, and mix lightly together. This salad costs about a quarter and serves four.

Pea and Cabbage Salad: Let one cup finely shredded cabbage, one cup sliced cucumbers and four sliced radishes crisp in ice water for about an hour. Drain and dry thoroughly in a towel. Add four tablespoons French dressing.
Then add one cup canned peas,
one-third cup chopped walnuts
and mayonnaise to just moisten.
Serve on lettuce. Serves six to eight.

These Serve Eight

Potato and Pea Salad: Marinate the contents of a No. 2 can peas and two cups diced boiled potatoes in French dressing for at least one hour. Add one-half cup diced pickled beets and one tablespoon chopped onion, and moisten with mayonnaise. Serve in lettuce nests. Serves eight.

Pea and Apple Salad: Marinate
one cup canned peas and one cup diced celery in French dressing for an hour. Add one-half cup chopped nuts and two large apples, diced, and mix with mayonnaise. Serves eight.*

Congress Faces
a Dual Responsibility

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

As members of Congress reconvene at Washington, America is hearing many familiar promises of economy in government.

Let's hope our legislators mean it this time. Let's hope they remember that the staggering debts piled up by government must be paid out of our earnings and our savings; that what they do to the public budget affects our family budget as well.

Let's hope that, unlike New Year resolutions, the promises will be fulfilled. It's time they were. For today, as a result of reckless spending by our federal, state and local governments, a public debt of more than fifty billion dollars has been written up for us, the workers and the earners of the United States, to pay.

Fifty billion dollars! That's a lot of money. And it will take a lot of taxes to pay it off. The interest and service charges alone cost us billions every year. It's one of the reasons why five out of every twenty-five dollars of the national income—which means the money earned by the American people—is consumed by taxes. And unless the economists are wrong, a lot of the bills which these taxes are straining to meet will be handed down as a grim legacy to our children and our grandchildren.

But you can't blame it all on Congress. The politician's penchant for squandering the people's money has extended to states and cities and smaller units as well. More than twenty billions of our fifty-billion-dollar public debt is, in fact, charged against state and local governments.

We pay for that, too—if not directly,
then in higher rents and in heavier bills for food, clothing and other necessities, all camouflaged as "hidden taxes."

Only a large dose of the frequently promised economy in government can lighten the load. Only an escape from the billion-dollar complex of the past few years can help.

Today our Senators and Representatives at Washington can do their part.
Because of the importance of the present session, the eyes of the entire nation are upon them as never before.
If they keep their promises and apply the brakes instead of the accelerator to public spending they will not only ease our burdens but they will set an example for state and local politicians to follow. They face a double and a serious responsibility.

Let's hope they meet it squarely—not only with our own relief in mind, but to assure the security and prosperity of America.

little are out coasting in the moonlight on second street.

Lowe and daughter Ruth went to Chicago to see George Burns and Gracie Allen at the Chicago theatre and Major Bowes amateurs at the Oriental theatre the past week.

Miss Dora Miller returned home this week after a two weeks stay at the home of her niece in Chicago.

Mr. Charles Smith and mother have returned home following a visit with relatives in Chicago.

urday with the former's brother in

Circulating Petition
For Representative

Friends of Bernice T. Van der Vries, member of the Illinois General Assembly for the Seventh Senatorial District are circulating petitions in Orland Park and Palos Park for the re-nomination as representative on the Republican Ticket in the primary election on April 14, 1936.

During her first term of office in the Legislature Mrs. Van der Vries, so her friends declare, has been an aggressive worker in the cause of education, in the protection of local municipal government and particularly in the effort to hold taxes to a minimum.
